Ominous Quiet In Korea As Attack Awaited

TOKYO (AP)—United Nations dug in and waited today, confident they can stop the next Red offensive when it comes.

The whole Korean front was quiet.

An 8th Army spokesman said the Reds could strike again any time they wanted. The consensus was that they would in about 10 days.

There were hints that the new onslaught would be backed by greater fire power—and possible planes.

A new airfield was discovered at Pyongyang, 25 miles northeast of Pyongyang, the Red Korean capital. B-29 Superfortresses tore it up with 150 tons of bombs.

Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, U.S. 5th Air Force commander, said the Reds "could build up (an air force) fairly rapidly. . . . We are keeping a watchful eye on them."

A Red patrol surrounded and overrun on the western front was equipped with an unusual number of automatic weapons, Associated Press correspondent John Randolph reported.

Probing U.N. troops killed or wounded more than 2,600 Red during the week-end.

CLLOUDS HAMPER PLANES
Low clouds held Allied air force sorties down Sunday and Monday. Prime targets were Red efforts to supply their front line troops for the expected assault.

On the ground, patrols played a grim game of hide-and-seek.

AP Correspondent Nate Fowlowitzky said "the lack of ground contact sounded an ominous note." It indicated the Communists had pulled back to strike.

(Canadian Press correspondent Bill Boss reported U.N. infantry, riding on tanks, sallied forth from defence lines on the West Central sector.

(The patrol pierced enemy territory north of the Seoul-Chungchun highway, where the infantrymen left the tanks and took up mountain positions overlooking Chinese-controlled terrain to watch for any enemy movement.

(They returned as dusk after an uneventful day.)

Nab Chinese With Drugs

Young Yet Wing, about 55, Chinese, of 555 Cormorant, appeared in city police court today charged with illegal possession of one of the largest supplies of narcotics found on an individual for some years in Victoria.

He was remanded to tomorrow without election or plea. Jack Yip appeared as interpreter.

R.C.M.P. officers arrested the Chinese after he stepped from the Vancouver boat Sunday. They found on his person 95 capsules of drugs, which had not been identified.

Cmdr. Welland Will Relinquish Ship Command

New Athabaskan Head Will Be King

Cmdr. Robert P. Welland, 33, of Victoria, who has commanded the H.M.C.S. Athabaskan since March, 1950, will turn over command of the destroyer in mid-July to Cmdr. Dudley G. King, 41, of Victoria and Vancouver, Naval headquarters announced today in Ottawa.

One of the three original destroyers dispatched to the Far East last July, the Athabaskan is scheduled to return to her base at Esquimalt Thursday afternoon at 2.30.

The Navy also announced: 1. H.M.C.S. Ontario, which left Auckland today after a 14-day goodwill visit to New Zealand, will arrive in Esquimalt June 7.

2. H.M.C.S. Nootka is also slated to return from the war zone before long. The Nootka, commanded by Cmdr. A. B. Fraser-Harris of Halifax, is scheduled to be relieved by H.M.C.S. Cayuga now refitting here for the Far East trip next month.

No definite arrival date has been set for Nootka, which arrived in the Korean theatre last January.

During more than nine months' service in Korean waters the Athabaskan, under the command of Cmdr. Welland, carried out a variety of assignments, including convoy and blockade duty.

Last September, she was one of the ships in the fleet supporting the invasion of Inchon and a short time later was transferred temporarily to the east coast to take part in the Wonsan landing operations.

AIRED BOMBARDMENT
In December the Athabaskan participated in the Canadian commanded bombardment and withdrawal operation at Chinnampo and was with the U.N. fleet at the withdrawal from Inchon.

The Athabaskan's more recent duties were less eventful, but equally important. For the most part she was engaged in screening aircraft carriers launching aerial attacks against "enemy" troops and supply lines.

Upon coming ashore in July, Cmdr. Welland will take up a temporary appointment as Chief of Staff to the Flag Officer Pacific Coast, the appointment at present is held by Cmdr. King.

Cmdr. Welland was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross in March, 1941, for "courage and enterprise" in an action with an enemy submarine.

U.N. Group Votes World Ban On War Goods For Red China

Recent Boost In Border Area By Russians

MacArthur Plan Would Not Win—Marshall

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defence Secretary George Marshall testified today Russia had made "sizeable increases" in its military garrisons near Korea since last December.

Marshall told senators that while the Russians always have maintained strong forces on their Siberian borders, there has been a recent strengthening.

He had mentioned this in testimony last week but his reference to December pinpointed the time of the build-up as he had not done before.

Under questioning, Marshall also insisted that Gen. MacArthur's plan of stepping up air and sea fighting would not defeat Communist China in Korea.

For the seventh day Marshall was before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees which are inquiring into MacArthur's dismissal from his Far Eastern commands.

Chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Tex.) of the foreign relations group, asked Marshall whether "our air power and navy could win a war against Red China and keep them from making an invasion of Korea."

"I do not think they could," Marshall replied.

As the hearings went into the new week, some members of the inquiry panel indicated they have picked up considerable optimism over the future in Korea.

"SOMETHING IN WIND"
Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep. Vt.) told reporters "There seems to be something big in the wind" that will support Marshall's assertion the allies are moving toward success.

And Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) said he has "the definite feeling" the top command has a plan "which makes the outcome look optimistic."

Flanders and Kefauver refused to talk about any of Marshall's off-the-record testimony, but they said his over-all account of the problem gave them the impression he was justified in saying: "We are moving toward a successful outcome."

Marshall made that statement near the close of Saturday's session.

Marshall thus again took issue with MacArthur, who had testified earlier that a bloody stalemate had developed in Korea—and that the only way to victory was the course he advocated.

That course calls for bombing Manchurian and Communist Chinese supply bases, a naval and economic blockade of the China Coast, and use of the Chinese Nationalist troops based on Formosa.

It was MacArthur's public advocacy of that policy which caused President Truman to dismiss him. The administration contends it might bring Russia into the conflict and touch off a Third World War.

Ships On Fire After Hitting
From A.P. and U.P. Bulletins
NORFOLK, Va.—A collier and a navy seaplane tender slammed together and erupted in flames a few miles off Cape Henry in the mouth of Chesapeake Bay today.

One man was killed aboard the tender Valcour and naval spokesmen said others might be injured.

A navy plane which flew over the scene said crews of both ships were fighting the fires and appeared to be bringing them under control.

The Coast Guard later reported the collier, the Ss. Thomas Tracy, was heading for port under her own power. The destroyer Hemlock was standing by the Valcour and the transport Thuban was heading for the scene to bring the dead man and the Valcour's 160-man crew to the Norfolk naval base.

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb returned to Victoria over the week-end from a vacation in the south to face perhaps the most difficult job he has had in his lengthy career in politics.

Mr. Anscomb will leave for the east shortly with his deputy, J. V. Fisher, to attempt to borrow the funds required for British Columbia's planned capital works.

Some $40,000,000 is required for all capital spending planned by the provincial government, and while B.C.'s credit rating is high, ranking second to none among the provinces, the doors to the money markets are no longer opening freely to anyone.

B.C. bonds now are available on a 3 1/2 per cent yield basis, but since the federal government slammed on the brakes to the inflationary spiral, borrowing at tolerable rates appears to be a thing of the past.

It is possible Mr. Anscomb may have to go to the U.S. in his search for aid in the task of floating loans.

Price Of Beer In B.C. Will Go Up Wednesday

Recent 2 per cent increase in the federal sales tax pushes the price of beer in B.C. up slightly this Wednesday.

Liquor Commissioner W. F. Kennedy today confirmed: Bottled beer sold in liquor stores will increase from $2.35 to $2.40 a dozen plus 7 cents sales tax or a price to customers of $2.47.

Bottled beer sold in licensed premises will go up 1 cent, from 27 to 28 cents a bottle, plus 1 cent sales tax, or 29 cents to the customer.

Bottled beer sold by the case in beer parlors will increase 6 cents a dozen, from $3.24 to $3.30, plus 10 cents provincial sales tax, or a price to the consumer of $3.40.

Mr. Kennedy said there will be no change in the price of draft beer.

Although beer parlor operators will pay 50 cents more for a barrel of beer, the price of a glass is to remain at 10 cents, the operator being compensated by a slightly higher profit on bottled beer.

The commissioner said beer parlor operators were not to cut the amount of beer sold in a 10-cent glass.

The liquor board did not intend to reintroduce the "load line" on beer parlor glasses, though.

Mr. Kennedy said it will be "some weeks yet" before the increase in the Dominion sales tax from 8 to 10 per cent is reflected in the price of hard liquor.

The board had fairly large stocks on hand which it will sell at the present price.

When new stocks come in the price of Scotch, rye, rum and other spirits probably will be upped about 10 cents an Imperial quart.

Cheques Stolen
The Victoria detective office today advised proprietors of local stores to be on the lookout for pay cheques of the Bay Lumber Co., Vancouver. Forty-four employees' cheques were stolen in the mainland city during the week-end and attempts may be made to pass them here.

Anscomb May Have To Invade U.S. Market

The Ontario Hydro Commission, one of the senior securities in Canada, recently borrowed from Wall Street before interest rates rose. And the Province of Quebec had similar success.

It is known other governments have sounded out the New York market and have found it unresponsive.

It is known that the B.C. government has been reviewing its capital works program in view of the situation which has arisen in the money markets and some government observers are convinced B.C. will be forced to cut some of its plans to the bone.

It is felt almost certain the plan to extend the P.G.E. Railway south from Squamish to North Vancouver will be postponed indefinitely, and some public works highway and building construction projects may be curtailed. It is considered likely school construction will be affected seriously, too, despite Education Minister W. T. Strath's recent assurance that little work planned will have to be set aside.

Hot Fight Expected In Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations Sanctions Committee today voted a world-wide ban on shipments of war goods to Communist China. The vote was 11 to 0, with Egypt abstaining.

The sanctions group, formally known as the Additional Measures Committee, is a 14-country body including Canada—set up to consider punishment of Red China for her intervention in Korea. The committee's vote is only the first step toward imposition of the world-wide embargo.

Countries voting for the proposed embargo were: the United States, Britain, France, Australia, Canada, Belgium, Brazil, the Philippines, Turkey, Mexico and Venezuela.

Egypt abstained because she has no trade with Communist China and because her delegation is one of the 12-nation Arab-Asian group which has been attempting to work out a cease-fire with Communist China.

Yugoslavia and Burma, named to the committee, declined to serve.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb, of Britain, told the committee the United Kingdom has been applying restrictions on trade with Communist China for some time. He said the resolution substantially recommends that other states do what "we have been doing."

MUST BE DEBATED
Following this, the ban must be debated by the Political Committee of the General Assembly, and then by the Assembly in plenary session. The Soviet Block is expected to fight it in both forums to the last ditch. India, leader of the neutralist group in the U.N., also is expected to oppose the embargo as endangering any chance of peace negotiations with Peking.

All signs point to eventual Assembly acceptance, however.

British and French opposition to the move, based on the fear that it might enlarge the area of conflict, evaporated last week.

INDICATES PESSIMISM
Pushing of punitive measures against the Chinese Reds indicates the extreme pessimism, with which the U.N. regards the possibility of a negotiated peace in Korea. The Additional Measures Committee, set up under the resolution branding Red China as aggressor in Korea last February 1, was to hold off recommendations for punishment until a U.N. Good Offices Committee had every chance to try conciliation.

The ban's effect is expected to be more moral than practical since the Soviet Union, which supplies most of Red China's arms potential, most likely will ignore it.

No Change for Canada
OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has enforced a ban on the export of strategic war goods to China for several months, an External Affairs Department official said today.

The official was commenting on a decision taken by the United Nations Sanctions Committee to vote a world-wide ban on shipments of war goods to Communist China.

"This decision does not go any further than what is already practised in Canada," the official said.

Probe For Bodies
SOREL, Que. (CP)—Police and firemen today searched the ruins of the ancient Quebec Hotel for possible victims of a general alarm fire which destroyed the interior of the three-story building Saturday.

U.N. Troops Fighting Cautious War In Korea

By JOHN RANDOLPH

KOREA (AP)—There has been a lot of talk about the Korean war becoming a stalemate.

As a matter of fact it has been a stalemate for the last 5½ months.

Except for the evacuation of northeast Korea and some guerrilla fighting in the south, the main front has never moved more than 85 miles since the first week of December.

All the sound and fury of battle since hasn't changed the real military situation in Korea.

The United Nations army is playing it cool, keeping out of the clinches, and cutting up its adversary when it can without trying too hard for a knockout.

AVOIDS CHANCES
The U.N. army has almost gone out of its way to avoid taking chances with the Chinese—almost as if the Far East Command was marking time deliberately until the diplomats settled the war or their governments sent over enough troops to win it.

This doesn't mean that the army command over here isn't playing the game. It has done wonders considering the odds.

Now, when the Chinese are obviously reorganizing after some murderous losses, there seems to be little U.N. desire to make even swift, limited but determined counterattacks—although this is the best time to do so.

But bold offensive action and counterattacks, even if they do not risk the safety of the army, would mean casualties. And even since the dark hours of last fall the command has been extraordinarily sensitive about casualties and has made every effort possible to avoid them.

No Stockpiling Of Sugar, Says Trade Official

OTTAWA (AP)—The Trade Department reported today that the recent Canadian sugar deal with Cuba has stirred world speculation that Canada is going to stockpile sugar. The department flatly denied it.

"Canada is buying no more sugar from the world than the amount to meet current needs," a spokesman said. "We are not stockpiling sugar."

What the sugar deal amounts to, he added, is that Canada will be buying that much less from her traditional Commonwealth suppliers.

Under the deal, Canada guarantees Cuba an annual market for 75,000 tons of raw sugar in return for renewal of tariff concessions on Canadian manufactured goods entering the Cuban market.

Britain Split On Far East Policies

Discussion On British-American Unity, Possible Spread Of War

LONDON (AP)—Britain is almost as sharply split over policies in Korea and China as are the adherents of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Defence Secretary George Marshall in the United States.

But the split here is along different lines, and has not yet boiled up into debate. In the main, it is a discussion of whether British-American unity must be preserved if that means going to war with Communist China and possibly Russia.

There is little support here for the position taken by MacArthur. No government—Labor or Conservative—could easily persuade Britain to war against Red China in the present political and military circumstances.

The Government—and most Britons—feel that world peace is doomed unless a way is found of settling the Korean conflict.

Britain has decided to support an American move in the U.N. to declare an economic blockade against shipments of war-potential goods from non-Communist countries to China. She has recognized that the need to bomb Manchurian bases may arise if U.N. forces in Korea are heavily attacked from the air.

B.C. Products Fair Viewed By 35,000

A charming 18-year-old dental receptionist, Miss Inez McLeod, is the owner today of a new fur coat, plus $100—gifts she received for winning the queen contest of the B.C. Products Fair which closed at the Memorial Arena Saturday.

Miss McLeod, representing Victoria's Drill Team, was chosen queen by public ballot. A crowd estimated at 5,000 saw Miss McLeod—crowned queen. Close runner-ups were Lynn Balcom, Victoria College, and Irene McChesney, B.C. Forest Products.

John P. Smith, 28-year-old Leechtown lumber inspector, won the 1951 sedan offered as a door prize.

Trophy for the most original exhibit went to Canfor Building Products Ltd.

The fair, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was the most successful in years, Don Anderson, chairman of the fair committee, said. He estimated that approximately 35,000 Victorians visited the display which featured all types of products made in the province.

Mr. Anderson said proceeds of the fair would go towards the publication of an industrial brochure and to commercial advertising throughout North America to promote the sale of B.C. goods.

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—Dr. Nancy Campbell today was behind the prison bars she sought to avoid by suicide.

Her left wrist was bandaged where she slashed it Saturday in the county jail at Albuquerque in the unsuccessful suicide attempt.

The 44-year-old pediatrician was treated at a hospital, then brought to Santa Fe to start serving the 10 to 15 year sentence for kidnapping Linda Stamm here last November.

"I prefer cremation. This is the best way out," Dr. Campbell said in a note.

After amputation of his shattered hand and treatment in five hospitals, he was returned to Canada.

The other, his left, he lost in a grim game of hide and seek with a Chinese Red in North Korea who had infiltrated Allied lines north of the 38th Parallel.

The World War II paratrooper thought he had his quarry cornered when the Red suddenly threw a hand grenade from 30 feet away.

"I thought it would land on my back and that I could knock it away in time," he said, "but it was too late."

Sgt. Perrin survived action with the Royal Gloucesters, a British regiment that was almost wiped out last month. Before enlisting he was employed by the Department of Veterans' Affairs in Courtenay, and was president of the Canadian Legion Courtenay branch.

Iran's Fainting Premier Receives Death Threat

TEHRAN (UP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh barricaded himself behind the thick walls of the Majlis (Parliament) Building today in fear of momentary assassination.

The frightened, 69-year-old leader, subject to frequent fainting spells, said he would remain in the heavily guarded building until the nation's oil industry has been taken over from the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Mossadegh told Parliament in a dramatic address yesterday that he had been threatened with the same fate as Premier Ali Razmar, assassinated March 7.

With shaking body and voice, he declared: "I have been informed an attempt will be made on my life. I have told the Shah I haven't any security for my life and I am going to carry firearms with me which I earlier put aside."

PREMIER MOSSADEGH

Then he fainted. The Majlis elected a five-man committee to complete the takeover process of the oil company.

AP MAN RESCUES WOUNDED

War Reporter Cited For Bravery

By RUSSELL BRINES
TOKYO (AP)—A lanky, eager war correspondent drifted out of the Korean dusk one night and asked permission to accompany an American outfit preparing for an attack.

The battalion commander tried to talk him out of it, because it was April 23, the second night of the heavy Chinese offensive on the front.

But John Randolph, Associated Press war correspondent, went along anyway.

The next day many American and Canadian newspapers carried his graphic account of the fight put up by Company B, First Battalion, U.S. Seventh Infantry Regiment.

Today the rest of the story came out.

Randolph has been cited for "courageous actions under fire on behalf of my men" by the battalion commander, Lt. Col. Fred C. Weyand.

The Americans were under constant fire from automatic weapons, mortars and artillery, Weyand said in a letter to the Associated Press. Several men in the lead platoon fell in the open.

"With complete disregard for his own safety, Randolph moved forward to carry these wounded

WELLINGTON (CP)—New Zealand's dock strike, entering its 13th week, was reported on the wane today with 14 ports being worked by new independent unions.

At Auckland, largest port, membership in the new union has grown to 1,300, enabling servicemen, who have been working dock facilities since early in the walkout, to be transferred to the still-strike bound port of Wellington.

The new unions were formed after the government deregulated the old Eastern Workers' Union in February. The dominant Dock Workers' Union had refused to work, claiming that a blanket wage increase was insufficient.

Leaders of the old union in Wellington approached Labor Minister William Sullivan last week seeking settlement. Sullivan told them the government insists on complete reorganization of waterfront work to bar strikes and delays.

Cuts To Get U.S. over Hump

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UP)—Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson predicted today the one-year squeeze of civilians—from July 1 to mid-1952—will carry the United States "over the hump" of the defence program.

Another 5-to-10 per cent cut in steel for automobiles—"but not much more"—and roughly comparable curtailment in refrigerators, washing machines and other civilian goods are in prospect, Wilson said.

Catholics Defy Legal Threat

MALLARDVILLE (CP)—More than 670 Catholic children again stayed away from the public schools today in defiance of prosecution threat.

The Catholic pupils, who started going to public school early in April, will be given religious instruction today in their own schools, Our Lady of Lourdes and Our Lady of Fatima.

Asked if the move was an invitation to the Coquitlam School Board to prosecute, Joe Haddock, a spokesman for the joint Catholic school boards, said:

"We are going to take them out for religious instruction regardless of the law."

This is the third time the Catholic students have been withdrawn. The last occasion was Ascension Day, April 3.

Personal income and income of corporations have gone up in the same proportion since 1939. Both have been multiplied by three.

BEEF CONTROLS BEGIN IN U.S.

WASHINGTON (UP)—All beef sold in all retail stores across the United States went under fixed dollars-and-cents price ceilings today.

On the average the prices ought to be about what the housewife has been paying since January, the Office of Price Stabilization said. "But by October 1, it said, meat controls are expected to roll back beef, cut prices by about 10 cents a pound."

Ottawa estimates a revenue of $600,000,000 this year from the 10 per cent federal sales tax.

Resignation Of Korea Official Accepted

PUSAN (AP)—Resignation of Lee See Yung, 82-year-old Vice-President of the Republic of Korea, was accepted today.

The National Assembly vote accepting the resignation was 77 to 10 with 41 members abstaining.

Only last week the assembly, with only one member dissenting, had voted against accepting Lee's resignation.

Lee has complained he had no real authority and criticized President Rhee's cabinet selections.

The Little Man's Bond

WHY THE CANADIAN AND UNITED STATES Governments have allowed their bond prices to drop has been explained elsewhere on this page. The resulting rise in interest rates is the surest weapon against inflation, since it discourages unnecessary borrowing and lending with the creation of new money.

It has been argued in some places, however—notably the Vancouver Province, which has failed to understand the deflationary process now under way—that the Government of Canada has violated a solemn promise to its bondholders. They were guaranteed, according to this theory, that at no time would the current price of their bonds sink below par. Hence the "little man," as the Province calls him, has been betrayed.

If the Province and other critics will look up the record they will find no such guarantee. On the contrary, they will find that the Government, under strong pressure, always refused to give a guarantee. It could not do otherwise. To guarantee that bond prices would always remain at or above par would be to guarantee that the Government would never use the essential weapons against inflation.

The relevant documents can be seen by anyone who cares to ask for them in Ottawa. The Government's policy was laid down in Parliament on June 29, 1944, when the C.C.F. demanded that the Government guarantee to maintain bond prices at all times. Mr. L. B. Pearson, then Minister of Finance, flatly rejected this proposal (Hansard, page 4715). He pointed out that if the Government held its bonds at a price to yield an unvarying interest rate of 3 per cent then no one would buy any government security, even of short term, for any less. Hence the Government—then able to borrow on short term at cheaper rates—would lose "millions of dollars" in interest costs.

Mr. Abbott, then Mr. L. B. Pearson's parliamentary assistant, also made clear (Hansard, page 945) that the Government could not give the desired guarantee of a fixed price. Both ministers promised, however, to protect the bondholders' interests and this promise was reiterated formally by Mr. L. B. Pearson in introducing the Victory Loan of October, 1945. Nowhere in his statement on that occasion is there any assurance that Government bonds would remain at par. To give such an assurance would have aided the sale of bonds. Mr. L. B. Pearson absolutely refused to give it.

The promise to protect the bondholder is now being carried out. For what are the interests of the bondholder? To be assured that the money in his bond will not be depreciated by inflation out of its value. Surely he would rather lose a few points on the market value of his bond than see it worth a full hundred dollars and the dollars worth very little in purchasing power. The purpose of the present deflationary policy is to protect the value of money and thus the real interests of the bondholder.

No one should be more anxious to see that policy succeed than the man who owns any fixed security like bonds, life insurance or mortgages. And a deflationary policy must include higher interest rates, which means temporarily lower bond prices.

Anyway, a bondholder who retains his security until the maturity date will be paid a hundred cents on the dollar. It is only if he sells before maturity that he loses something in dollars. His main concern should be the value of the dollars he gets now or later.

Deeper Study Needed On Parking

F PROPOSALS SUBMITTED TO THE City Council's transportation committee to shorten parking time and double fines for violations are put into effect, they may drive more private cars out of the city—and with them some of the business of downtown stores—but they will not provide a solution to the parking problem. At the expense of creating further resentment on the part of drivers, the authorities could increase the extent of the curb space in use. At best, however, the suggested amendments would be only a temporary expedient.

The plain fact of the matter is that Victoria is inadequately supplied with convenient parking space, where a motorist may leave his car for an unlimited time without breaking city regulations. The argument can be advanced, of course, that that car owners have no right to use them as such. If that argument is pushed to its extreme, it would prohibit all parking at the roadside.

Creation of sufficient public parking spaces to meet current needs might be excessively expensive. It will grow more so as construction increases and potential locations are taken over by buildings. The point cannot be ignored, however, that motorists are citizens who pay a substantial sum into the public coffers. If they become persuaded that they are being victimized by tolls and fines, no one can blame them for a resentment that would be an unfortunate development in the city.

Nor is it unnatural, though the officers are merely doing a job, for motorists to think that policemen might employ their time to better purpose than "pinching" car owners who overpark. The problem requires a great deal more study than is suggested in the "move to increase fines and reduce the maximum time at which vehicles may remain at any section of a metered curb."

Developing Better Weapons

DESCRIPTIONS OF SOME OF Canada's new weapons, as given to a meeting of the Engineering Institute in Ottawa last week, suggest one reason why the country's defence budget this year has been set at nearly two billion dollars.

The engineers heard of guided missile research which is being conducted by the Canadian Army, of a new anti-tank shot or 17-pounder and 76 mm. guns which has improved the accuracy and penetration of these weapons and won the favor of British and American officials. In addition, Canada is working on a new mountain howitzer design—the first task of its kind to be attempted in this country. In the "finished product" category is a greatly improved flame-thrower for infantry use. These, of course, are new projects and constitute only a small portion of the vast program of development and production now underway to rearm the Dominion.

It is because of this effort that Canadian taxes are being raised, civilian consumption is being restricted, and a general pattern of preparedness is being imposed on our living. War today is a matter of scientific weapons. The better armed soldier will be the victor where fire-power is the vital factor in success—a lesson which the multitudinous but poorly-armed Chinese troops are learning today in Korea. It is reassuring to know that the valor of Canadian fighting men will be matched by the efficiency of their arms.

In Again, Out Again

THE CASUAL READER NO DOUBT has been completely mystified by the amifications of Panamanian politics. The forcible removal from office of President Arnulfo Arias apparently marks a new phase in the tangled governmental history of the republic. The most recent upheaval appears to have been caused by Arias' single-handed attempt to restore the constitution of 1941—which gave the President wide powers—in place of the constitution of 1946 under which the country now operates.

Public clamor against the change, including riots and armed clashes, moved Panama's strong man, Police Chief (and military leader) Col. Jose Remon, to take action and jail the President. It does not clarify matters much to recall that it was Remon who staged the coup in 1949 which put Arias into the Presidency.

Only one thing seems clear to the foreign observer. The people of Panama were determined that there should be no reversion to a less liberal constitution for their country. In the Latin American manner they registered quick and violent disapproval, and the "strong men" appear to have been equally quick to follow their wishes.

There seems little likelihood that Panama's politics will be permanently established on a sound basis by the present activities. Coups and sudden impeachments seldom lead to long-lasting stability. We can only be thankful that the storm is of relatively tea-cup size in the international scene, as Latin American insurrections regain their peacetime pattern.

Gratifying Response

THE RESULTS OF THE FIRST FIVE days of recruiting for Canada's 27th Infantry Brigade, which will serve in Europe, have been termed "excellent" by army officials. In that period, 2,933 men were taken on strength. Another 2,820 applications were being considered. At that rate of response the goal of 5,500 to 6,000 men should soon be reached.

Such an achievement will be gratifying in itself. But it will have other

Echoes Of The Past

RISE ABOVE THE JACK-HAMMER rhythm of mechanical progress last week was a ringing cheer for two groups of men who have turned back the wheels of machine age advancement and who are loved for that achievement.

The Board of Transport Commissioners in Ottawa decreed that horns on "road" Diesels running between cities must be "tuned in chords of not less than three tones to produce a harmonious sound." It may not be the haunting melody of the old train whistle, a music that sings of great distances and the passage of locomotives and passenger cars through the hills, but it should be a close approximation to it. Some reminder will be furnished of a sound that is dear to Canadian ears and one that has been heard all too infrequently here since the E. & N. converted to Diesels.

The second revival of old glories is indicated in the Spokane report of 40 men who saddled their horses and hit the 340-mile trail for Centuria. They expected the trip to take nearly a week, and some of their wives think they are insane. But the leader explains the men are only responding to "an ancient instinct."

By modern standards, this is retrogression. Yet how pleasant are these echoes of the past lifting above the cacophony of the atomic age.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
(This is the second in a series of articles on deflation.)

OTTAWA: In the classic economy of the 19th century a rise or fall in the bank rate was a pretty devastating thing. Merely by increasing or decreasing its charges for loans, the Bank of England could send shivers or earthquakes throughout the world.

Last autumn the Bank of Canada raised the rate of interest it charged to private banks when they borrowed money. No shivers or earthquakes followed, because the classic economy was dead. A century ago the Bank's action would have been violently deflationary. It would have reduced bank loans, which are the main ingredient of so-called money. Last autumn bank loans, and the money supply, continued to expand in a gaudy and inflammable balloon.

AS ALREADY recounted here, the Bank of Canada, seeing that the storm signal flown in the autumn had not been observed by the private banks, called them in and suggested that it was about time to halt the current financial lunacy. The banks promised to reduce their loans—that is, the money supply. About the same time the price of Government bonds suddenly dropped when the Federal Reserve Board, triumphing over the politics of the U.S. Treasury, pulled its props from under the bond market.

SO NOW we have in Canada a definite attempt to halt the expansion of bank loans, or money, and a higher interest rate which follows the fall in bond prices. In short, it is mighty difficult to borrow and spend money and thus force up the price of goods. Classic measures of deflation at the source—instead of the unworkable attack on symptoms known as price control—are at work, but will they succeed? No one can tell. All that the Canadian Government knows so far is that bank loans continued to rise in the first quarter of the year despite the banks' promise to curtail them. However, such a curtailment takes time. It is unreasonable to expect any real change before midsummer. If by then loans are still rising either we are going to plunge into further inflation or the Government must take still more drastic deflationary steps. As stated in an earlier dispatch, the Government is pretty confident—barring accidents—that the money balloon is going to descend.

A LOT of other things will descend with it. Among them are the investment plans of provincial and municipal governments. When Mr. Anscomb goes to market this year to borrow the huge (and probably now the impossible) sum of $40 millions he will find the financial markets in a sub-zero temperature.

In the last few days this reporter has spent some gloomy evenings on a Pullman car with other provincial statesmen who have been to Toronto and to New York and found that there just isn't money to be borrowed—not, anyway, at rates which any province or municipality can pay and still face the taxpayers. Mr. Anscomb is in for a depressing trip east one of these days.

IF British Columbia and other provinces, and many municipalities, are unable to borrow the money they want to build all kinds of things, that is just what the Canadian Government planned for them. The whole purpose of the Great Deflation is to reduce the demands of governments, of business and of individual consumers on the available supplies of materials, manpower and machinery which are overstrained by the defence program.

BUT note this: The Government of Canada is not directly administering this purge to the economic body of the nation. It has prescribed the medicine but it will be administered by the free and flexible private enterprise system. It is for every individual bank manager to decide who gets loans and how much. It is for the investors in bonds to decide how much they will pay for government or private securities and hence to fix the interest rate.

The Government has merely pulled the great deflationary lever. The innumerable and delicate gears of the economic machine will remane themselves—and will do it much better and much more rapidly than any set of government planners could hope to do.

THIS gigantic process of adjustment is now under way. Undoubtedly many private business deals and many provincial and municipal treasurers will be caught in the gears and their schemes will soon assault the ears of Ottawa. Can Ottawa endure such political agony? If anyone is still interested, I shall attempt an answer next time.

Report On Beer

Sam Pollock in the BBC London Letter

It was disclosed recently that the output of beer in Britain for 1950 was 320,000,000 pints less than in 1949. One fact which is puzzling the experts is that, according to the annual reports of our chief constables, this heavy drop in beer drinking has coincided with an increase in convictions for drunkenness—though someone has pointed out that an increase in convictions is quite consistent with a decrease in the habit of drunkenness itself.

Publicans maintain that the behavior of public house customers has never been more temperate; indeed some landlords are so worried about the decline in beer drinking that they're wondering whether it pays to encourage darts and other games as they do: many customers, they find, are so busy with darts or dominoes that they haven't time to drink—one-half pint'll do them all evening.

Pie In The Sky

McDonald Prain in BBC London Letter

One day we made a pie—there was no butter or margarine in the stores so we had to make do with olive oil, and to roll the pastry we had to use a bottle filled with cold water, and work it on the chart table. Well, the pie was fine, but a few days later we had trouble with the navigation. I member the skipper bending over the chart with a magnifying glass muttering: "If that's the Wolf Rock we're O.K., but if it's just another spot of pie crust, we're half way over to America."

RESIDENTS COMPLAIN

We, the undersigned taxpayers of Kingston Street, strongly protest the proposal of the City Welfare Department to house four families, including 18 children in the dilapidated premises on the corner of Kingston and Menzies Streets.

It is an insult to the residents of this area, as well as the families involved. The only way this house could be made fit for human habitation is to be gutted out completely and rebuilt.

How any health officer or fire inspector could honestly pass this place is beyond comprehension. This site, if rebuilt into suites for elderly people, being central, would be more to the advantage of the city and surrounding neighbors, many of whom are now living in attics and basements.

Overcrowding and squalid conditions are the breeding ground of juvenile delinquency as well as communism. Thousands of dollars are being spent advertising Victoria. What an advertisement this will be, side by side with the grandeur of the Parliament Buildings, and the entrance to Victoria.

WANTS SOME FACTS

I had the pleasure of listening to Mrs. Hodges, the Speaker of the British Columbia Legislature, on the B.C. and she mentioned your paper. This prompted me to write you.

I am a quantity surveyor, qualified, and dealing with housing and building contracts generally, age 34, healthy and ambitious, and keen to emigrate to your province. I would not hesitate but for the fact I am married with a small son, and one hears at times very depressing stories of difficulties in getting jobs as well as living accommodation, in Canada.

I wondered if any of your readers would give me some idea of the facts and what opportunities are offered in my particular sphere.

Perhaps you would publish my letter in the hope that I could get something more encouraging than that obtained from official sources here.

MEDICAL COSTS

Re the hospital insurance scheme in B.C., years ago while talking to an aged and educated Chinese, he said to me: "My friend it seems to me that your medical system is based on the wrong idea. In our country we pay our doctors when we are well and cease to pay them when we become ill."

Since this government scheme has proven such a sorry mess, I have several times thought of the old Chinaman's words, and on consideration it definitely has several advantages.

First, one pays when able to earn and payments cease when unable through illness.

Second, it is definitely to begin hospitals and doctors' advantage to keep their patients in good health as much as possible.

Third, the hospitals and doctors would know within reasonable limits what money would be available.

In The Centre Ring...

In your issue of May 10 Mr. Brock in his column comes up with the interesting theory that animals in circuses enjoy themselves. According to Mr. Brock they like doing this, that and the next thing. He quotes no authority for his intimate knowledge of animal psychology, therefore we have to assume that he has carried out considerable research and knows the mood and thoughts of any animal by a casual glance. It is a fair bet that Mr. Brock also believes the ancient tales so often told of circus animals, namely that "it is all done with kindness."

Many people would like to believe Mr. Brock's thoughtless assumption that animals enjoy circus life and that they, like some humans, run away from home to take up this mode of life, but unfortunately, there is too much evidence to the contrary.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which has been in existence since 1835, in a Report on Circuses in general has this to say regarding the training of circus animals: "It must be repeated that performing animals are not enjoying their work."

They are going through set and mechanical actions drummed into them by endless repetitions and severities. Training of these automatic actions is carried on in secret where none are there to aid or to reveal their fears and expose the punishments inflicted upon the animal pupil."

The late Jack London, who had actually worked under the Big Top in his early years, found difficulty in finding terms strong enough to describe the shocking cruelty and the life of misery which the circus animals were forced to lead, and in his later years did all he could to draw these pitiful conditions to the attention of an apathetic public.

In the past I have found Mr. Brock's column amusing, though seldom profound. It is regrettable that he chose to make light of such a subject. If Mr. Brock really wishes to find out how these animals feel, he could try traveling from one end of the country to another cooped up in a cage with barely room to turn, and in many cases little ventilation.

Case Of The Freak Beak

Ottawa Citizen

DISTURBING news has just come from Bristol, England. At a time when Englishmen are being required to pay half the cost of spectacles and false teeth, the Bristol zoo's Secretary Bird has been equipped with an artificial beak. Apparently this expensive service has been provided at no cost to the bird.

Inhabitants of Mr. Attlee's England may well ask whether they have not been discriminated against. Somebody ought to ask some questions in Parliament about the affair.

Apologists for the Labor Government will suggest that under present regulations the Secretary Bird is entitled to half a beak without payment, and since the dentists, who used drills, rivets and a cylinder of gas to provide the ornithological adornment, furnished the bird with half a bill only (the upper), then the spirit of the new ruling was properly observed. This does not seem to be a cogent argument. It is well known that the British citizen is required to pay, not the cost of a half set of false teeth, but half the cost of a set of false teeth, which is quite a different matter. A similar restriction ought to be imposed in the case of dental services rendered to Secretary Birds, even though the authorities in question are only local ones.

It may well be asked why Secretary Birds should want new beaks at all. They have been described as "raptorial serpentine-like birds resembling the crane." The creature gets its name from the fact that it has feathers at the back of its head like pens stuck behind the ear. Clearly it is no beauty, and one would question whether the cost of a new beak is a justifiable investment. Whether the extension of the welfare state to bird life is warranted will not easily be decided.

Ottawa Is Calm Despite Problems

By MICHAEL BARKWAY

OUTWARDLY Ottawa has taken the MacArthur controversy calmly. Almost everyone from journalists to Cabinet Ministers, with the exception of a very few rather brash back-bench M.P.'s, has been disguising himself as a statesman ever since the MacArthur storm broke. Everyone has been acutely aware that no intervention or expression of views from "foreigners" even from such a close neighbor as Canada, could possibly do any good in the fevered state of U.S. opinion but might very easily do harm.

OUTWARD CALM

But under the outward pose of calm detachment Ottawa has been more worried than at any time since the end of the war. The Canadian Government has not wavered in its conviction that nothing must be done from the United Nations side to extend the Korean fighting or to distract any more Western strength away from the crucial theatre in Europe.

Last week Mr. L. B. Pearson got a chance to repeat Canada's stand in the House of Commons. He did it without mentioning General MacArthur's name, but he flatly turned down every one of the General's suggestions. He put his emphasis, as President Truman did in his broadcast, on the vital necessity to maintain the democratic alliance—and particularly the special ties of friendship between Britain, the United States and Canada.

Of Mr. Pearson sounded dispassionate, he was deadly serious and most emphatic. The popular conception of the External Affairs Minister as a happy-go-lucky sort of chap who would really be much happier playing baseball has always been inadequate, and it is becoming more and more inappropriate as a picture of this hard-working and essentially serious man.

RAFFLING PROBLEMS

For the last year Mr. Pearson has had no let-up in his constant study of the world's baffling international problems. From last July, when he had to carry the main burden of persuading the Government to let Canada carry its share in Korea, through all the work of the U.N. Cease-Fire Committee last January, Mr. Pearson has been in the thick of it. It is not surprising that he is beginning to show some signs of the strain.

While these very grave questions are being debated by Canada and the United States, it is not surprising that so little attention has been paid to the long-delayed settlement of the Newfoundland bases problem.

Ever since Newfoundland joined Confederation two years ago the Canadian Government has been trying to get a change in the 99-year leases by which the United States took over three Newfoundland bases from the United Kingdom Government in 1941. The leases gave the U.S. forces extra-territorial rights which would not have been tolerated under Canadian jurisdiction.

The final settlement after these two years' delay falls short of what Canada would have liked, but it is a relaxation of legal rights to which the United States had an incontestable claim. The most important concession is that the U.S. forces give up their right to try any non-American subjects—a right which probably would never have been exercised anyway.

QUID PRO QUO

The two factors in these negotiations which neither Government has revealed are, first, that Canada has provided a quid pro quo in the form of a new lease to the U.S. Air Force at Goose Bay; and second that both Governments are concurrently engaged in discussions with the other NATO powers about a general agreement to cover the force of one NATO country stationed in another.

This agreement should cover the 27th Infantry Brigade when it gets to Europe, so the Canadian Government has had to keep in mind the concessions we shall want for our own troops. Perhaps that has helped to a more sympathetic understanding of the American views on U.S. troops stationed in Canada.

Caterpillars Will Be Missing, But Holly Leaf Miner Causes Concern

Mr. Caterpillar won't be setting up his tent in the orchards of the province to any alarming degree this year.

This welcome report came to-

City Report On Traffic Is Readied

First portion of a report on the full-scale survey of traffic conditions currently under way in Victoria, is expected in three to four weeks' time, Robert W. Doble, head of the traffic survey section, said today.

He reported steady progress to date with traffic counting and analysis.

"I have asked the directors of the Victoria Automobile Dealers' Association for certain information on statistical aspects of the business and they are providing me with all the data I require," Mr. Doble said.

He stated he has received a steady flow of letters from the general public and has found "several helpful points."

A study of the city's traffic by laws and conferences with J. L. Doughty-Davies, who is conducting a re-zoning survey for the city, was reported by Mr. Doble.

day from government entomologists who said a "plague" of tent caterpillars is not expected for "another two or three years."

There is another multi-legged pest which is causing concern, though, and the "bug experts" had a word of advice for the backyard gardener as well as commercial growers.

The holly leaf miner is having a "field day" at the present time, they said, and spraying of holly trees should be undertaken at once.

COULD KILL INDUSTRY

The "miner," which is in the form of a fly at the present time, damages the leaves of holly trees. If the trouble-makers are allowed to increase their population, it could mean death to the important holly industry.

The fly lays eggs on the underside of the holly tree's leaves. The eggs hatch into a maggot which bores into the leaf all winter, appearing as a fly in the spring to start the vicious cycle again.

To combat the menace, the government people recommend a 50-per-cent D.D.T. powder spray—two tablespoons of D.D.T. soluble powder in a gallon of water, and one and a half pounds per 100 gallons.

Miners don't run in cycles as the tent caterpillars do. The caterpillars return in droves every seven to 10 years. They swarmed here last in 1946-47.

Chicago's Milk Strike Ended

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's three-day milk strike ended today. Dairy operators and union leaders said deliveries would be resumed immediately.

The drivers agreed to a two-year contract which would give them a $2-a-week raise, retroactive to May 1, another $3 Oct. 1, and a final $3 May 1, 1952. Drivers also would get six days' pay for five days' work, and deliveries would be on a seven-day basis. The agreement will be voted upon today by union members, and a union spokesman forecast that it would be ratified.

Drivers now get $77 a week plus commissions.

HOME GARDEN

To have success with window boxes, porch boxes, patio tubs, and hanging baskets, it is necessary to start quite early in the year.

Seed is sown and cuttings are rooted indoors. The containers should also be placed under cover after being filled with the growing media.

Young plants are then set into place, and as growth progresses, the necessary pinching is done to obtain bushy habit. When the flowering stage is reached, the containers are moved to the summer locations. In a few days they are the admiration of all.

The increasing interest in this type of decoration is evidenced by the number of questions regarding suitable material which have been received in recent weeks.

Geraniums, calceolarias and lobelia have given fine displays for many years, but there are other suitable subjects which should receive the attention of the progressive gardener.

In the matter of foliage alone, variation will add interest. Nepeta hederacea variegata is a trailing green and white leaved plant which branches freely. Anthurium chlorophyllum elatum has narrow grassy leaves bordered with white, and sends out runners which bear clusters of dainty white flowers and complete plants at the end of the runners.

South Africa has contributed many plants of daisy-like appearance which are admirably suited to full sunshine, and of spreading or trailing habit. Some of them are gazania, dimorphotheca, arcotis and felicia—these will give flowers of yellow, orange, red, blue and white.

Plants for semi-shady spots may include archimenes in lavender, purple, white, red and pink; pendulous tuberous begonias in white, red, orange and pink, and fuchsias in combinations of red, purple and white.

For tall accent notes in boxes, tubs and urns, the grass-like leaves of the Dracaenas are most graceful.

U.S. Loses More Planes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States air force has lost 212 planes in Korea while the communists were losing 149.

In making these figures public Saturday, the U.S.A.F. offered no explanation. However, the American aircraft have been used in support of ground forces and in bombing missions to enemy-held areas guarded by anti-aircraft guns.

On the other hand, the U.S.A.F. has had difficulty in locating enemy planes to destroy. In the first few weeks of the war, the original North Korean Communist air force was wiped out. Since Communist China entered the war, she has chosen to base her planes safely in Manchuria, sending them out only on occasional sallies close to the Yalu River boundary.

Apt. Dwellers Flee In Night Attire

VANCOUVER (CP)—Seventeen persons fled in night attire early Sunday when fire broke out in the Marsden Apartments here.

Mrs. P. Marsden, wife of the owner of the three-story building, said the blaze was in the suite of Mrs. Gertrude Martin, and that all furnishings and personal possessions in the suite were destroyed.

However, firemen prevented the blaze from spreading to other rooms. But considerable smoke and water damage was caused to all suites in the building.

Korea Spies From Espionage Schools

TOKYO (AP)—The prosecution charged today that sale of narcotics and penicillin financed the operations of 16 Koreans and two Japanese charged with spying against Allied forces in Japan for Communist North Korea.

Chief prosecutor Maj. Robert M. Murray of the United States Army told the court the defendants, who pleaded innocent, were trained in espionage schools.

And they called it—QUADRA STREET

BEHIND THE SIGNS WITH Jim Nesbitt

A famous Spanish explorer is commemorated in Quadra Street.

Juan Francisco de la Bodega Quadra, Knight of the Order of Santiago, in 1792, was named by the Viceroy of Mexico to meet Capt. George Vancouver at Nootka on the West Coast of this island, and restore to the British the lands taken by the Spaniards in 1789.

Quadra and Vancouver became firm friends. Quadra started B.C.'s first settlement at Nootka. He lived well and gave big dinner parties, the guests dining from silver plate.

Before his meeting with Vancouver at Nootka, Quadra had explored this coast. He first came here in 1775. He was born at Lima, the son of Don Tomas de la Bodega, descendant of a noble house in Spain.

After their meeting at Nootka, Quadra and Vancouver met again at Monterey in California.

Quadra died in Mexico in March of 1794.

GOVERNOR WARREN

Warren Makes Spirited Bid

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A determined bid by Governor Earl Warren of California for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination was forecast today by party leaders as the Republican national committee members wound up a week-end conference here.

Although Warren was not represented at the Tulsa meeting by any active campaigners such as those who buttonholed delegates for Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and former Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, the California governor's name got frequent mention in lobby talk as a possible presidential candidate.

In previous years, Warren has shied away from any active drive for the nomination. He wound up in 1948 on the vice-presidential end of a ticket headed by Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Inferior Chinese Troops Succeed 'Super Soldier'

'Big Jim' Stone, Home To See Stricken Daughter, Tells First-Hand Of Fighting

EDMONTON (CP)—Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone, commanding officer of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, said Sunday the concept of the Chinese as a "super soldier" is gone.

In a press conference at Western Command, Col. Stone gave an outline of the Korean fighting on his part of the front, described Canadian troops as "excellent" and reported doctors may know today what ails his two-year-old daughter, Moira.

He arrived by air Saturday to visit the tot who had an eye removed Thursday.

"We never did meet any top-rate Chinese soldiers, in my opinion," Big Jim Stone said. "They have a certain lack of interest in living but they're like everybody else. If you kill enough of them, after a while they quit coming."

Col. Stone said the better troops of earlier in the war had been succeeded by inferior men, presumably because the veterans of the Sino-Japanese war were banged up.

The Canadians — "magnificent troops" — had met nothing but Chinese in their battle experience.

"I'm not one to count bodies," Col. Stone said, "but I'd say there were 250 to 300 scattered around our area when the Chinese got tired of trying to come through us in that last heavy action. We held them for 36 hours."

He said of his troops: "They're the most cheerful bunch of people I've ever met in my life—under any conditions. They certainly are magnificent troops, happy in mud, rain, cold or heat."

KING, QUEEN MARGARET IN SAME PLANE

LONDON (AP)—The King, Queen and Princess Margaret flew together in the same plane today for the first time.

It has been customary for members of the Royal Family to use separate planes even though bound for the same destination because there would be less danger that several might be killed at the same time.

The Royal party flew from London to Aberdeen en route to Balmoral Castle for a week's stay.

Chinese Navy To Get American Help

TAIPEH (Reuters)—The U.S. will spend $5,700,000 before the end of June to build up the Chinese Nationalist navy, according to Maj. Gen. William Curtis Chase, chief U.S. military adviser to the Nationalists.

He said the money is in addition to $50,000,000 already allocated for building up the army.

14 Killed In Highway Mishaps In 3 Provinces

From Canadian Press Dispatches

Fourteen persons died on the highways of Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta during the week-end, and a like number were injured.

Worst toll was in Ontario where a total of 12 were killed—six when their automobile was demolished by a train near Blenheim.

Two Kitchener district men were killed near Owen Sound when their car left the road, and the bodies of two youths and a girl, apparently killed by carbon monoxide fumes, were found in a car near London.

A man died at Owen Sound from injuries in another highway accident.

In Manitoba, the inauguration of Winnipeg's new traffic control by-law was marred Saturday night when 37-year-old Joseph Wasney was killed by a car while crossing an intersection. Driver of the car failed to stop.

Ten persons were injured Sunday when a Greyhound bus, en route to Winnipeg from Minneapolis, collided with a truck two miles south of St. Adolphe, Man.

Twenty-year-old Helen Anna Mimmelspach of Calgary was fatally injured when she lost control of her bicycle and skidded on the pavement of the steep Cochrane Hill Saturday. She died 40 minutes later of a broken skull.

Sunday, two men were injured in a highway collision at Finlay, near Taber, Alta.

One of the men, Sato Kadonaga, suffered concussion and is in critical condition in Taber Hospital.

Views Of Sport

By RED SMITH

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y.—Johnny Bratton, proprietor of 47 48th of the welterweight championship of the world, was getting ready to fish for the remaining fraction of the title Sugar Robinson discarded when he joined up with the middleweights. Recognized by the National Boxing Association after defeating Charley Fusari, Bratton will go for the New York version against Kid Gavilan in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

A light cold had taken him out of the ring for several days and now he was back, sparring lightly with a flashy lightweight named Orlando Zuleta, contenting himself with slipping the little fellow's jabs and hooks or blocking or picking off the punches, feinting, circling, using the ring. They went three rounds, and then he did two with Wilson, who has a bolo punch like Gavilan's.

When Wilson wound up the bolo, Bratton tried to beat him to the punch with a jab. Late in the second, and last round, Bratton began to clown, faking exaggerated bolos first with the right, then with the left hand, after he stripped off his white jersey and shadow boxed before a big mirror in the Long Pond Inn training gym, then pulled on a terry cloth robe, hung a towel over his head and sat dripping with perspiration in a small dressing room.

They're All Alike In The Top Ten

"I wasn't trying to do much," he said, "just taking it kind of easy after the lay-off. That Wilson fights a lot like Gavilan, gives you a good workout."

"Gavilan? He's just another opponent. When you get up in that top 10 they're all alike. You don't worry about any of them. But every fight's a big one then."

"Gavilan has a real tough chin," he was reminded, "and he's an expert at stealing decisions with that flashy side-wheeling stuff of his."

"That's got a hell of a chin, too," said Charley Goldman, the little trainer. "I know, because I had some real good sockers in against him. And if Gavilan steals some decisions with his tricks, he loses some split ones too, because he will fool around through most of a round, and then try to get the round back with a flurry in the last 10 seconds."

Bratton is 23 now and has been a professional since he was 16. "I was 12 when I went to the gym first," he said. "If there's a fighter in the neighborhood, why, it seems the kids always kind of look up to him because they think he's tough. There was an amateur in my neighborhood in Chicago and he was a kind of hero to all the kids. It was him took me to the gym the first time."

"There was a fella ran the gym and he was going with a girl and she had a kid brother about 90 pounds, like me. I beat him up and the fella threw me out of his gym and wouldn't let me come back till I was 16."

"Then when I started fighting, the worst thing ever happened to me was I only had two preliminaries. After that it was always main events. After I won from top notchers like Willie Joyce and Freddy Dawson, I always had to be too far up in class for my own good."

"My bones weren't even hard or nothing. I'd throw a few punches and my hands would puff up so I couldn't punch at all. I'd just slap at a guy and flick jabs at him and spank him on the behind, clowning so he'd think I could do more with him than I was doing when I couldn't do nothing."

"My bones weren't even hard or nothing. I'd throw a few punches and my hands would puff up so I couldn't punch at all. I'd just slap at a guy and flick jabs at him and spank him on the behind, clowning so he'd think I could do more with him than I was doing when I couldn't do nothing."

"Then when I started fighting, the worst thing ever happened to me was I only had two preliminaries. After that it was always main events. After I won from top notchers like Willie Joyce and Freddy Dawson, I always had to be too far up in class for my own good."

Yacht Club Marks New Season

All eyes were on the auxiliary sloop Buccaneer II Saturday afternoon when Royal Victoria Yacht Club launched its 1951 summer season. The Buccaneer, owned by H. A. Wallace, yacht club commodore, served as flagship during the colorful sail-past ceremony. Relaxing after the review, left to right: Jack Lindsay, John Wallace, Mr. Wallace, Mrs. Wallace, Capt. B. L. Johnson, former commodore of Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, and Shirley Wallace.

Murder-Suicide In East Premeditated, Police Say

HULL, Que. (CP)—A scrawled "will" found in the personal papers of Henry Knudsen has satisfied Hull police that the Port Edward, B.C., taxi operator who trailed his wife 2,500 miles clearly intended to take his own life and hers.

Police announced last night that no inquest will be held into the murder-suicide shootings which brought death to the couple Friday in a night club hotel here.

Knudsen, 50, killed his wife with two shots from a newly-purchased 30-30 rifle. He then shot himself through the mouth.

The bodies were found in a blood-spattered hotel bedroom late Friday night.

Police Chief J. A. Robert said a letter left by Knudsen to his daughters, Yvonne and Jennie, did not contain a clue to the motive for the slayings.

Much of the letter police could not decipher, as Knudsen, Swedish-born, was not well versed in writing English.

Part of the letter which could be read said:

"Mom's car is fully paid for. I've got about $400. That's all yours now. So is my house."

Police Chief Robert revealed these other facts:

Knudsen, who had flown to Ottawa Thursday to join his wife, had bought a return ticket.

Mrs. Knudsen had struggled vainly to avoid shooting at the hands of her husband.

She had come to Ottawa in company with Robert Maloney and Robert Belanger, both 41-year-old construction workers and neighbors of the Knudsen's in Port Edward.

They arranged with Mrs. Knudsen to drive them east, where they were to take on new jobs.

Freed Of Blame In Wreck Of Troop Train

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Telegrapher Alfred John Atherton has been cleared of blame in the 21-death Canoe River train wreck in the Rockies of British Columbia.

Atherton, charged with manslaughter following the collision of a Canadian National Railway's passenger train and troop train Nov. 21, was acquitted Saturday night by a jury which deliberated 40 minutes.

The Crown claimed the 22-year-old youth, a telegrapher for the C.N.R. at the time of the accident, failed to relay a train order correctly — dropping two vital words and thereby bringing on the crash.

He was charged specifically in the death of Henry Proskunik, fireman aboard the west-bound troop train.

ONE-HOUR CHARGE

The charge to the jury by Mr. Justice A. D. MacFarlane took one hour, after addresses by the Crown and defence counsels which consumed five hours.

Atherton, arrested in Saskatoon, was defended by three lawyers: William Ferry, R. Hall and John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Lake Centre, Saskatchewan.

Mr. Diefenbaker's summation took three hours.

Atherton's mother broke down for the first time since the trial opened when the jury foreman read the verdict of acquittal.

Col. Eric Pepler, deputy attorney-general, was chief prosecutor at the trial, which lasted four days.

It's Dietrich By Three Lengths In Hollywood 'Horse' Race

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Movie men are getting to be beasts in Hollywood and I don't mean the species that movie queens refer to in the divorce courts.

The boys are playing animal on the sound stages. Six males, down on hands and knees, puff, groan and grunt in a big saloon piggy-back sequence in the Marlene Dietrich starrer, "Chuck-a-Luck." Astride their wicks are Marlene, Lisa Ferraday, a 275-pound actress named Mabel Smaney and three dolls garbed as western dance hall queens.

Dick Wessell is the human nag who carries Marlene over the finish line in the "horse" race.

Jockeys and riders fall to the floor, but Marlene and Dick romp in like Eddie Alfaro on Man of War.

Some pranksters on the set are painting a sign for Wessell's back as a gag. I look over their shoulders and read: "Marlene Dietrich sat here."

DOGGY POWELL

Dick Powell's in the animal act, too. In U.I.'s "One Never Knows," he's a police dog named Rex in the comedy-fantasy about a canine who returns from a dog heaven in human form to track down his killer. The scene before the camera calls for him to do everything but scratch for fleas to the amazement of his co-star, Peggy Dow.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Wal, Whaddya—Randy Gets Kissed In A Western

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Podner, you'd never guess what happens to that Randolph Scott in his latest movie show. He gets kissed.

Not by his boss, either. That's what happens to other movie cowboys. This wrangler Scott is definin' the old no-sparin' tradition. He's even gettin' smacked by two gals—Joan Leslie and Ellen Drew.

You might blame the whole thing on that new-fangled television, or so sez Harry Joe Brown, the fellow who's producing the new Scott flicker, "Man in the Saddle."

PIT SHOTS AND PLOTS TOO

"With so many westerns on television," the man sez, "we have to give the public something more than a routine western. We have to give them a strong plot."

This fellow Brown started making shoot-'em-ups after the First World War and has 'em pegged to a system now.

"Western picture fans—and that includes just about everybody—have rigid requirements for what they see," he sez. "They want action. If you don't give them action often enough, they get restless."

"People can't figure out why such fine pictures as 'The Ox-Bow Incident' and 'The Gunfighter' don't make money at the box office. It's because they don't have action. Make a psychological western and you're in trouble."

Vancouver Play Will Open Festival

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—In keen anticipation of a week of lively theatre Londoners settled down today to watch the Dominion Drama Festival take the boards.

Canada's top amateur theatre talent made busy last-minute preparations—toning up on lines, laying out wardrobes and sets, checking lighting effects and attending to the hundred other details that make a play.

The public's interest in the affair was illustrated in the case of the Vancouver Repertory Theatre which opens the competition tonight with its production of Thomas Job's "Therese."

At least six spectators from Vancouver accompanied the cast of eight and Director Christine Chantier when they arrived Sunday. As many as 300 outsiders—actors and actresses as well as just plain theatregoers—are slated to attend the opening.

In addition, a group of four has been sent by the Newfoundland Little Theatre to study the festival with a view to entering next year.

The festival's honorary chairman, D. Parke Jamieson, of St. John's, Nfld., said other groups from points without entries in the festival will be on hand, seeking drama tips from adjudicator Jose Ruben's criticism.

The New York Theatre director at a press conference Sunday lauded the current Little Theatre movement as "a school not only to train the actor but also the public."

He felt amateur theatre was the "salvation" of the modern stage.

NEW YORK (AP)—The jobs of five city employees who earn $25 a day at race tracks to check on the city's share of the tax on pari-mutuel betting will be abolished next week, Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri said Saturday. The mayor said that henceforth the city will rely on reports by two regular civil-service employees, also assigned to observe the pari-mutuel boards at the New York tracks.

Actor's Wife Recovering

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mrs. Jimmy Stewart, 32, was reported improved Sunday night after her third operation within a week. A spokesman for Stewart said she was taken off the critical list after a restful day.

The third operation, performed last night, for intestinal complications, was called a success. The hospital still listed her condition as serious, however. The third operation and some minor surgery Friday had nothing to do with the births of twin girls by Caesarian section last Monday.

B.C.-Born Director Finds New Job In Movie Capital

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movie Director Edward Dmytryk, who resigned himself of Communism before the un-American Activities committee of the House of Representatives, goes back to work today—the first movie personality to be re-engaged by a studio after admitting party membership.

The King Brothers, independent producers, will sign Dmytryk to direct a patriotic saga of American naval heroes during the war of 1812.

The producers said they hired Dmytryk, a native of Grand Forks, B.C., because of requests of the house committee and the motion picture industry council.

Dmytryk was one of the Hollywood ten who served six-month jail sentences for refusing to tell a 1947 committee hearing whether or not they ever were Communists. At a recent hearing he admitted he was formerly a Communist.

Neighbors oppose housing of four families in old Menzies St. home.

Bitter Opposition Faces City's Welfare Project

City Welfare Department, now altering dilapidated old home at 432 Menzies Street to make four suites for families on social as-istance, today faced bitter opposition from persons in the area.

"The house is not fit for human beings," said Mrs. Agnes Spisito, 422 Kingston. Other homes on the street are neat and well-kept, she pointed out.

"The city is putting up partitions but is not rebuilding the house at all," she claimed. "Bathrooms will have no ventilation or windows, and I'm told four families with about 18 children will be living there."

Led by Percy Sims, 484 Kingston, every resident of the 400 Block, Kingston, and neighbors each side of the house on Menzies Street, signed a petition asking that the project be discontinued.

PETITION FILED

It was received and led by the welfare committee, and petitioners were told that before the suites were occupied Dr. J. I. Gayton, city medical health officer, would have to pass on them to decide on possible overcrowding.

"The basement is a hole," Mrs. Spisito said. "Plaster is falling off the walls, the stairs are falling down, and there is no place to dry laundry in wet weather. From a health standpoint it's a disgrace to put people in there."

"The city is always talking about getting rid of slums, and here is one starting," Mrs. Spisito added. "There is not room here for that many children to play."

The city is spending $4,000 on alterations, including installation of bathrooms, partial partitions in the suites, and other possible improvements within the funds allowed.

NOW IN ARMY HUTS

According to the welfare committee, there is no other place to put the four families except in this city-owned house. Two are now occupying old army huts, and since the Department of National Defence wants the property back, other accommodation must be found.

The committee has no other place to put the families. Still, they must be taken care of by the city. Fixing the old house was the only solution the committee could find, and it is doing its best to meet the situation with the funds available.

Southeast Pacific Volcano Stirring

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (Reuters).—An island crater in the Solomons, 500 miles from Mount Lamington, scene of the most devastating volcanic eruption of modern times, stirred ominously today.

Officials warned that there were mounting signs that an explosion may be near in the long-silent crater of Bougainville Island.

Lamington, 500 miles away in New Guinea, erupted in January, spraying molten rock thousands of feet in the air and killing 4,000 people.

Canadian Embassy Officials Return

MONTREAL.—Two members of the Canadian embassy in Moscow, J. C. Watkins, charge d'affaires, and M. A. Crowe, foreign service officer, are among the 620 passengers aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada which will dock here Tuesday evening.

Also aboard is J. P. C. Gauthier, former assistant Canadian commercial attaché at Paris, who is returning to this country with his wife and family.

'Shining Example' Of Reds Dimming

Broadcasts Of Smashing Spy Rings In Manchuria Significant

HONG KONG (AP).—The Chinese Communists announced today raids in 23 Manchurian cities, including Russian-occupied Port Arthur, had smashed two "counter-revolutionary" spy rings.

The Peiping radio said a number of persons were arrested by security police, but didn't say how many or specifically when the raids took place.

The announcement was considered of more than usual significance in this British Crown Colony. Peiping has pictured Manchuria as a stronghold of Communism and cited the territory as a shining example to areas "improperly indoctrinated."

Moreover, Manchuria has been regarded generally as the part of China most strongly under direct Russian control. Port Arthur, on the tip of Liaotung Peninsula, is rumored as possibly Russia's strongest military base in Asia outside her own boundaries.

The Chinese Reds dropped a hint Sunday that their great purge of suspected western sympathizers may have backfired, forcing a shift to an individual house-to-house campaign instead of the mass-spectacle methods thus far used.

NOT GOING WELL

An editorial in the May 1 edition of the Peiping "People's Daily," which reached here today, makes it evident that China's "resist-the-U.S.-Aid-to-Korea movement" is not going well.

The editorial said that now "it is necessary to diminish the amount of large-scale mass activities and guard against convocation of too many meetings."

This sounded like Communist jargon for "public executions" and "public trials," which the masses apparently have not found edifying.

The editorial recommended an important change in the system of "mass education." Instead of herding people to witness trials and executions, it said, individual groups should carry out "street-to-street, lane-to-lane and door-to-door propaganda activities."

Paper Fined For Not Having News Approved

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP).—The newspaper Ultimas Noticias was fined 1,500 bolivares (about $500) Saturday for publishing political news not previously submitted to authorities for approval. The fine was imposed by the civil and political administration of the federal district government. It did not specify the objectionable terms.

New Political Party Recalls Hitler Days

BONN (AP).—Are the Nazis making a comeback in western Germany?

This question has been asked by alarmed allied and German officials since the startling election successes of a new political party which openly backs Nazi ideas. Nearly 400,000 West Germans voted for the radical right-wing Socialist Reich Party May 5 and gave it 16 seats in the lower Saxony state parliament.

The party won 11 per cent of the state vote by calling for the restoration of the "many good features of Nazism," rule by the 10-per-cent elite of the country through the Hitlerite "leadership principle," and the neutralization of Germany between east and west.

MAY BE DELAYED

The Bonn cabinet says it will ask the new federal constitutional court to outlaw the party, but it may be months before a ruling is handed down.

Meanwhile, Bonn must be content with outlawing the party's jackbooted "Reichsfront" guards, and with asking the various state governments to keep the activities of the neo-Nazis in bounds.

The present situation has a spine-chilling resemblance to the 1930's when Hitler's thugs bullied their way into power.

S.R.P. speakers at mass rallies trot out many old catch-phrases. There is talk of "German blood" and "German honor."

Home Material Burned

HAMILTON, Ont.—A $100,000 fire tonight destroyed the warehouse of Zeller's Construction Company on Hamilton Mountain. No one was injured.

Al Zeller, owner of the contracting firm, gave the damage estimate and said "Enough material to build 150 homes" was destroyed.

Loot-Laden Youths Caught By Police

Saanich Constables Robert Coleman and George Walton early Sunday morning caught three 14-year-old boys laden with an amazing assortment of articles they had just stolen from C. Turner's grocery store at 401 Burnside.

The youths were walking down the street carrying their loot when the officers in a patrol car stopped them. They had broken into Turner's store by smashing a rear window, police learned.

The loot included 70 packages of cigarettes, 13 flat 50's of cigarettes, 12 packages of tobacco, 50 cigarette rollers, 24 bottles of pop, one box of Band Aids.

The youths also confessed the stole a bicycle, which was later recovered.

The boys will appear before juvenile court.

William F. Bruske was fined $15 on three charges of making false statements to secure unemployment insurance benefits.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

What do you say is the best way to spend a summer vacation?

S. Clarence Johns, jeweller, of 2119 Oak Bay Avenue—"The best kind of holiday, I would say, would be at Payette Lakes down in Idaho. That's a spot about 100 miles from Sun Valley, but it's a summer resort whereas Sun Valley is a winter playground. I went there last year in September and had a fine time. It is a beautiful spot. This year, though, I think I'll go fishing at Brentwood. But life for me is a holiday."

Miss Kay Bartle, stenographer at main branch, Canadian Bank of Commerce, 85 Howe Street—"I have no idea what I'll be doing during my holiday this year. A good way to spend it, I suppose, would be to go to Qualicum Beach or somewhere nearby. Isn't that what the local tourist people like to read? Seriously, I haven't seen Qualicum Beach and I think I'd like to view it. Of course, I'd like to go back to Winnipeg. That's where I'm from. I don't know if I'll make it, though. Like everyone else, I'm battling the high cost of living. If somebody handed me a lot of money for a holiday, I think I'd fly to Bermuda or some distant place that I haven't seen."

M. R. "Vid" Vidler, clerk, Island Building Supply Company, 1420 Fort Street—"I think most people have one idea when it comes to holidays. That is to get away from their daily obligations and go some place where they'll have a good time. Every man or woman who is working needs at least two weeks' holiday a year to get away from the stress and strain of daily work. I think myself there's no need to go a long way away for a holiday. I'd rather go up-land than to California. I'd say there are a lot of people who have lived here a long time who don't know much about their island and who would enjoy a holiday on it if they only gave it a try."

Mrs. Evelyn Wilson, clerk, Fower's Children's Ware, 1270 Yates Street—"Well, that's hard to answer. It all depends on how much money you have and how much time you are given. If there were no obstacles, I'd like to go to Europe or to Japan. Actually, though, I have only been over here from Vancouver a short while and just being here is something of a holiday in itself. I think the nicest holiday I ever had was in the Laurentian Mountains out of Montreal. My husband was with the CBC then and we enjoyed a whole month there."

Dennis "Red" Hillier, C.P.R. telegraph boy, 1020 Catherine Street—"I think I'd like to go to Banff for my holiday. I've heard lots about it; read lot about it, and I've seen lots of pictures of the place. A couple of us fellows figure on hitch-hiking up there this summer and camping out in the open when we get there. There'll be three of us. We can't take too many or we'd never get a ride. Some of the boys bicycled up to Parksville last year. We had two weeks' holiday and had a real good time."

Mrs. Charlotte Thomas, mail rider clerk, Simpson's 111 Clarence Street—"A summer holiday? Haven't had a summer holiday or the last 21 years. If I had a holiday now, I wouldn't know what to do. I've read several novels from one place to another, you understand, and the change was like a holiday. But I've not had a proper holiday. I expect to have a two-week vacation this year but I suppose I'll spend it painting the back steps. Last year, I papered the kitchen. For a real holiday, though, I would like to go to Renton and visit my son who is in the air force."

J. L. Doughty-Davies, town-planning expert, currently conducting a zoning survey in Victoria, will give a progress report to the regular meeting of the Victoria Town Planning Commission Thursday night at 7:30.

Over 40 Miles Island Roads To Be Surfaced

A total of 41.2 miles of roads and highways on Vancouver Island are included in the provincial public works department's hard-surfacing program this year, it was learned today at the Legislative Buildings.

The program for the whole of the province covers 273 miles. Details of the island undertaking are as follows:

Nine miles on the Alberni Highway; 2.65 miles on the Island Highway from Campbell River to Duncan Bay (site of the Elk Falls Ltd. big newsprint plant now under construction);

Car Dealer May Contest City Election

J. M. "Jim" Wood, head of J. M. Wood Motors, Ltd., revealed today he has been approached to run in the forthcoming civic by-election, June 7.

"However, I haven't given it serious consideration," said Mr. Wood, who has never run for civic office before. Also approached was David L. Meharey, of the real estate firm of Meharey & Co. Ltd. Mr. Meharey stated, however, there was no possibility of his running.

To date, William H. Williams, owner-operator of Merchant's Transfer, who ran second in a field of five at the last civic by-election, in February, is the first to announce his candidature officially.

While others, including J. A. McLellan, former police chief, are reported considering running, it is believed some prospective candidates are waiting until the Non-Partisan League decides whether to field a contestant or not.

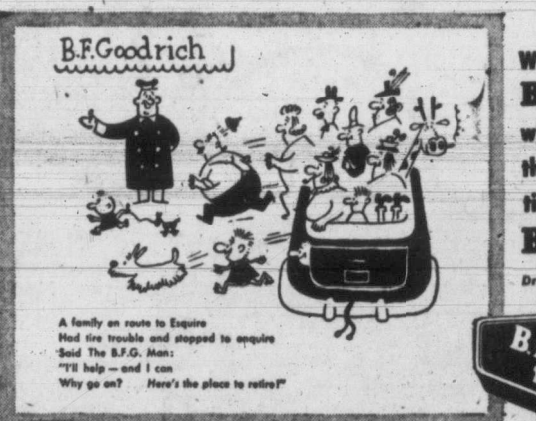

The executive of the league will hold a private meeting at 5 to-night. If they decide to sponsor a candidate, a further meeting will be held to name him.

"We have no precedent to go by as we have never entered a by-election here yet," said Walter Walker, president.

'Drunkometer' Use Plans Here Rapped

Dr. McNiven, However, Believes It Is 'Step In Right Direction'

Dr. E. L. McNiven, who resigned from city service in a squabble over examining drunk drivers here, today lauded efforts to install a "drunkometer" for use by Victoria police. He added, however, he doubted sincerity "with which it is being investigated by the city police commission."

Dr. McNiven's statement follows: "There is no doubt at all, about the drunkometer, the alcometer (or any similar machine for estimating alcohol in the expired air) being used to combat drunkenness is a step in the right direction. But I have my doubts about the sincerity with which it is being investigated by the city police commission. It would seem to me that it is viewed and reported on, for the purpose of finding objections to it—for the commission knows full well and have so expressed themselves and have been legally advised, that whether it be breath, urine, or blood there are cardinal principles which apparently prevent their use."

1. That a man need not bear witness against himself or incriminate himself.

2. That technical assault occurs if anything is taken from him against his will or in the absence of ability to form "intent." With this information in mind it is not ridiculous to spend taxpayers' money investigating a machine they have no intention of using anyway?

Furthermore, the expired air examined by this machine estimates approximately what the blood alcohol level is and the result is expressed in terms of percentage of blood alcohol. Since alcohol in expired air is only 1/10 to 2 per cent of ingested alcohol, the percentage error in estimating the whole from say 1 per cent is much greater than in estimating it from blood 100 per cent.

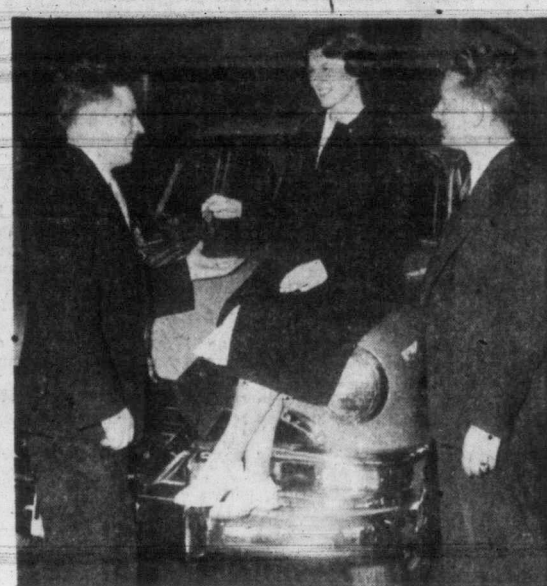

The machine, as a screening device is a decided asset and would prevent situations such as recently occurred in this city where a man fell downstairs, was locked up as a drunk, sentenced to 30 days, the following morning, and that night became unconscious. He was taken to Jubilee Hospital and recovered there, and was discharged about the time his sentence expired. The machine would pay for itself in preventing situations that have occurred in other cities nearby and might be the means of preventing lawsuits. It might be added in passing that the eye of the experienced policeman missed this one completely, unless he becomes more experienced or more cautious, a calamity is going to occur in our city jail and it cannot be said that a warning was not received.

SHOPPING GUIDE

New Child's Toy, Compact, Provides Hours Of Fun

By PENNY SAVER

Leave them alone and they'll play for hours... said a clerk about one of the latest gadgets for keeping the wee one interested while you shop or visit.

The little thing is not more than two or two-and-a-half inches square, yet it packs quite an appeal for "Junior." He has a number of little squares, within the square frame, to slide and push, this way and that, to form a puzzle of words or numbers. Sort of a junior-sized crossword puzzle.

With each 55-cent educational puzzle there is a series of paper puzzles from which a child can work. The square is attached to a handy key chain.

By the way, in my Saturday column I neglected to tell you about another of big sister's fashionable sun dresses now designed for the "teen-ager."

Waffle pique again and this time designed with summer white, sleeveless jacket sporting a row of golden buttons, and sun dress with over-the-shoulder straps, form-fitting bodice and full skirt. All that top fashion for $7.98.

Sum of 25 pennies is all one shop is asking for a sturdy gardening trowel. With metal scoop and metal and wooden handle the trowel should stand up under many moons of wear.

Here's metal, on the scene again, and this time supporting a storage album for your recordings. The metal back is housed in the binding of the album where most of the wear and tear of handling is centred. You'll pay but 98 pennies for a 12-pocketed album for 10-inch recordings, and $1.19 for the 12-inchers.

In the tub for a soaping, a swishing and out, hung up to dry and ready to wear in the morning are the nylon ankle socks for the youngsters. In all the colors of the rainbow, and then some, the socks are being wrapped up for 85 pennies a pair.

Noticed, in a magazine recently, a rather ingenious little hook to act as a pearl shortener. Very fashionable these days to wear a strand of pearls as a choker and with this little S shaped, two-way hook to slip between the pearls, it's a second's work.

If you see the new gadget give me a jingle 'cause I'm interested, too!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Swimming Suits Demand Streamlining Inner Leg

That inner leg line is one spot which often gives age away. It is likely to become flabby, in fact it is almost certain to unless you exercise faithfully.

There are all kinds of exercises which claim to remedy this situation but I am going to repeat a few today which I know will do the work because they have been effective in my classes for years.

1. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight. Drag the legs apart and then together. Continue. Do not lift the legs from the floor.

2. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor a short distance away from your sides. Lift both legs to a position halfway between the floor and right angles to your body. Hold the legs in this position as you swing them apart (legs stiff throughout). Now swing the legs toward each other, crossing the right leg over the left. Swing apart again and this time swing the left leg over the right. The knees are stiff. Continue swinging apart and across.

3. Lie on the floor on your back. Swing the right leg out to the right as far as you can, keeping the knee stiff and the heel very close to the floor. Swing right leg back and across the left just a bit. Continue swinging out and in, with the heel just off the floor. After a while do the same thing with the left leg.

When the inner leg line is flabby it detracts greatly from your figure beauty when wearing a bathing suit. If you swim, one of the best exercises possible for this figure fault is the frog kick used in the breast stroke. If you do not swim this stroke at least learn the kick by hanging onto the side of the pool and executing it.

If you would like to have my leaflet about swimming, which gives you instructions for teaching yourself, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 22, "Learn to Swim." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

MARY HAWORTH

In Process Of Divorce, Woman Attached To Man Who Plans To Marry

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: For some time I have known a young man who has become a very dear friend of mine. We have many interests in common, and although we never talk about it, I know that he is in love with me. He notices every slight change in my appearance, goes out of his way to be helpful, seeks my company at every opportunity, and says he enjoys being with me.

I know he is in love with me when I look into his eyes, and I am sure he sees the same expression in mine, for I cannot conceal it either. However, there are two reasons why we cannot talk about this to each other. First, I am still married, although in process of getting a divorce from an insanely jealous man who lies to me and goes to other women. (Bill knows all about it.) Second, Bill has been engaged for some time, and plans to marry in June.

I don't know the girl nor anything about her. I don't know if she loves him or is capable of making him happy—he is not an ordinary sort of man. I don't know if he loves her and wants to marry her; or if it's just one of those cases where it seems impossible to back out after long drifting. I only know that he never speaks of her, and from all appearances doesn't see much of her; and that neither I nor anyone I know, ever sees them together. I do want him to be happy above all else; and terrible as it seems to me now, I would step out of his way immediately, if I could be sure this projected marriage will be right for him. What should I do? He often asks how my divorce is getting on; and should I take this to mean he is anxious for me to be free soon? Please advise. S. C.

MAN'S BEHAVIOR VERY DEFENSIVE

DEAR S. C.: As I get the picture, you are physically infatuated with Bill, and he is gratified by your yen for him; hence he flirts with you encouragingly. But his absolute reticence with you, as regards his fiancée, indicates that he shuts you out of his real social life, doesn't admit you to the status of good friend or dearly beloved (in his estimation); and in fact holds you psychologically at arm's length, in the guarded

No two pairs of feet are alike. Yours has an individual shape, which is why you may never be able to wear the pair of shoes you eyed so eagerly in a shop window. A shoe must be shaped like your foot when you are standing. It is built around a wooden form called a last which determines size and shape. People with foot abnormalities must have casts carved to fit them, but most normal feet can be comfortably fitted with shoes made on one of the standard lasts. Not all these lasts will be right for your foot. As you cannot change the shape of your foot to conform to the shape of a shoe, you should shop around until you find a shoe whose last does fit your foot perfectly, then stay with it. It's true that given time your foot will force a shoe into a shape that will fit, but that's the way foot troubles begin.

Mr. And Mrs. Peter Langdon Travel South On Honeymoon

Traveling to Southern California and later to Mexico are Saturday evening's bridal pair, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Robert Howard Langdon, who repeated wedding vows before Dean G. R. Calvert at Christ Church Cathedral.

The bride is the former Miss Kathleen Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edward Cooper, 2325 Lee Avenue, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard John Langdon, 143 Joseph Street.

A Dutch bonnet of Chantilly lace styled with clusters of lily of the valley at each side was worn by the bride in gown of gleaming white satin and Chantilly lace, styled with satin-covered buttons from the tiny Peter Pan collar to the waistline, slender bodice, sleeves that end in points over the hands, and a cascading skirt that fanned out to a peacock train.

The bride's only jewelry was pearl earrings, gift of the groom. She carried a cascade-shaped bouquet of lily of the valley and gardenias. Her father gave her in marriage.

From Lethbridge, Alta., to be matron of honor, came Mrs. M. E. MacPherson, who wore a gown of shell pink transparent net over shimmering satin designed with little Quaker bolero embossed with satin. Her tiara and mitts were of matching pink net. Identically gowned was brides-

Wedding Scene 19th Century Picture When Joan Gonnason Married Saturday

Like an exquisite daguerrotype of the Victorian era was the wedding scene in Christ Church Cathedral, Saturday evening, when Joan Marie Gonnason became the bride of Jewel Herbert Goddard.

Dean G. R. Calvert heard the nuptial vows spoken by the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Gonnason, 630 Dallas Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming L. Goddard, Martinez, Calif.

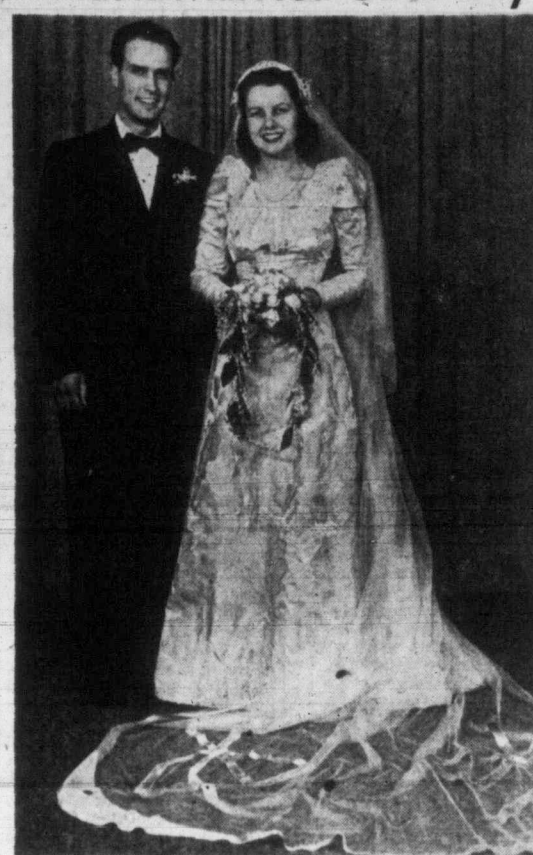

White calla lilies at the altar and clusters of fragrant lilac added further beauty to the wedding. The bride wore a gown of ivory blue Duchess brocade satin, designed with the leg-of-mutton sleeves, deep, low-cut neckline, richly trimmed with Honiton lace, form-fitting bodice, and suggestion of a flutery bustle over the stiffened skirt that fanned out to a sweeping train edged with a frill of matching Honiton lace.

Misting out over the bridal gown was a satin-tipped veil caught to her chestnut brown hair with a Juliette cap of lace, framed in orange blossoms that were worn by her mother on her wedding day.

She carried a white prayer book topped with cream-colored roses. Mr. Gonnason gave his daughter in marriage.

ATTENDANTS THREE

Tulip pink, rustling taffeta gowns were worn by the trio of bride's attendants, Mrs. V. G. Chivers, matron of honor, and the bride's sisters, Miss Peggy Gonnason and Miss Sharon Gonnason. The senior attendant wore a crownless hat of petal-folds trimmed with matching pink taffeta and caught at each ear with a sprig of white lilac. She carried a bouquet of white lilac centred with matching pink flowers. Bridesmaids wore halos of shirred taffeta styled with clusters of lily of the valley at each temple, pink taffeta mitts and carried bouquets of white lilac. Their gowns identical to that of the matron of honor were fashioned with low-cut bodices pointing up the shirred panel of taffeta that encircled their shoulders to form puffed sleeves. Similar shirred panels were set into the circle skirts to create a pan-liner effect.

Baxter Armstrong traveled from Concord, Calif., to be best man, and ushers were Ted Chivers, Salt Lake City, Henry Rodeen, Seattle, Michael Powell and Peter Jones.

Profusions of white lilac, pink tulips and pink and white stocks in white baskets were placed in the drawing room at the home of the bride's parents where the new Mr. and Mrs. Goddard received their guests. Col. Vincent McKenna proposed the toast to the bride.

A rich, cut-work cloth edged with lace was centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with lily of the valley and flanked by lighted white candles in silver holders.

Summer red poppies on a natural Italian straw bonnet were worn by the bride with her going away suit of wheat-beige tone. Her accessories were red and beige and she completed her ensemble with a short fur cape worn over her shoulders.

BRIDGE LESSON

by Oswald Jacoby

South was very versatile in the hand shown today. He was very enterprising during the bidding but very cautious in the play. It was a good combination.

West's opening club lead was taken by dummy's ace and a trump was returned at once. When South played the king of spades, West cleverly played low.

This was a neat trap—except that South was too wise a bird to fall for it. If South continues trumps, West takes the ace and leads a third trump. Then there are only nine tricks five trumps, three diamonds, and a club.

South saw this possibility and switched to diamonds. He cashed the diamond king and led his remaining diamond towards dummy. West discarded a club (it would have done him no good to ruff), and dummy won with the ace.

Once again there were pitfalls to avoid. If declarer leads the queen of diamonds from dummy, West ruffs and takes the ace of trumps. Or if declarer leads a heart, West wins and leads the ace of trumps followed by his low trump. In either case the contract is set.

Declarer solved his problem by leading a low diamond from dummy and ruffing with the jack of spades. Now nothing could set the contract.

West again refused to ruff. Thereupon South led a low heart. East won and returned a club. South ruffed. Now South ruffed a heart in dummy, returned to his hand by ruffing a club to ruff another heart in dummy, and then discarded his last heart on dummy's queen of diamonds.

West could take his two trumps, but they were not enough to set the contract.

VICTORIAN SPRING

by Cecil Madden

LXXXIV

Among that motley bunch of men in drab, mole-skin trousers and checked shirts, he had spotted a sailor who had served in his own ship and was undergoing a sentence for desertion. Immediately behind this sailor was an Indian. And at least two negroes were in the sorry file.

The chain gang had gone out into the sunlight. And since then the other small movements and sounds had but conspired to deepen his sense of helplessness. He had heard the prison clerk counting—and apparently checking—with a helper—some Indian pledges of security. He had endured the retching of some convict who was sick—the irregular, dull knocking of a cobbler at work on the worn prison shoes of other chain gang men.

Apart from the jailer, no other man had been to visit him. He supposed that those concerned were at work on the case elsewhere. It had been too much, apparently, to hope that Twining

... or Roper ... might get in to bring him some news. (Incredible to think that only last night the three of them had been sitting together; turning round to look at Caroline Murray in her box at the theatre!) No. He could not expect a visit. The issues were too grave for visitors.

The Admiral must have been consulted by now. The delicate matters arising from the imprisonment of a naval officer in a civilian jail, on a civilian charge, would have to be settled. And those matters would be rendered still more difficult by the nature of the charge.

The charge was murder. A countless number of times during the last few hours Jervis had told himself this fact, yet still it seemed a fantasy. He had tried to put all merely emotional thoughts about it from his mind. Above all, he had tried to dismiss his fears and anxieties for Letty, and look at the circumstances coldly, as the judge himself would look at them.

The woman who had been killed—was unknown to him. That, at least, could be proved easily enough. It was probable that he could also prove that the revolver was also not his own. And try as they would, they could find no motive. Yet who else? Always he came back to the same alternative. Whether any fresh evidence had been discovered in these last few hours he did not know, but such evidence as did appear was unpleasant enough. Of a truth his story must sound a lame one—that in the darkness, immediately after the shot, he had felt the gun thrust into his hand, had looked incredulously down on it, and, without taking any single, sensible action, had merely watched the wisp of smoke from it.

Once more he fixed his eyes to yet another scrutiny of cracks in the stone and shadows on the wall.

It was a relief, in this vicious round of self-examination, to think of home. He leaned his back against the wall, and closed his eyes, and thought of it again now.

The sun rode high in the wide skies of Westmoreland. He was striding over the fells again, with Rex, his English setter. And the air was warm, and there was the dry, sharp smell of the ling and the bracken, and the black earth again. The tarn at the bottom of the lane was as clean and as clear as ever, like a ripple of steel in the dale. While up from old Moffat's meadow the warm and ugly sound of the corn-crake struck into his ears. Over the edge of the lane where the wind was quieted, there still was sweetbriar, and the nectar-moistened trumpets of the honeysuckle.

Across the low stone wall beyond it and round the corner of Mr. Oldthwaite's land, above the beck and beyond the stile, was the first of the fields of home. And in the mellow old stone house with the white-framed windows (how, pink those roses must be now!) his father would be sitting, in the library, writing that book about the British Navy that never got completed ... for the bees would swarm 'or the honey must be gathered, or the old roan would need help again, or the vicar would call, or his mother would be begging him to walk across the fields with her to Mrs. Heswall's, or to take some more eggs down to Grandfather Greenleys.

A rattling of his door brought Jervis back again to the realities of the situation. The jailer was letting the Commissioner into the cell.

$500,000 Damage In Alberta Fire

BONNYVILLE, Alta. (CP)—Four main buildings in this northern Alberta town were destroyed by fire Saturday night. Damage was unofficially estimated at $500,000.

Ten persons were made homeless by the blaze but no injuries were reported. Paradoxically, another fire some time ago helped control Saturday night's outbreak. Water in the basement of a burned-out cafe served as a reservoir for fire-fighting equipment.

Bonnyville is 175 miles north-east of Edmonton.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

No more provoking thing I know
Than just to hear "I told you so."
—Mrs. Whitefoot.

Whitefoot the Wood Mouse and Mrs. Whitefoot were in a quandary. Yes, sir, they were in a quandary. You don't know what a quandary is? It is very simple, but sometimes very troublesome. When you have a choice of several ways of doing things and don't know which is the best way, or when you have your choice of just two ways of doing a thing and don't know which to choose, you are in a quandary.

Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot had lived all winter in an old stump right next to a tall tree in the top of which Redtail the Hawk and Mrs. Redtail came to build their nest.

WANTED TO LEAVE

When Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot discovered that those two great enemies of theirs were living right above them, Mrs. Whitefoot wanted to move right away. She wanted to leave their snug winter home the very first minute that both those Hawks were away and it was safe for them to come out. Whitefoot said, "No!" He pointed out that they had no place to go to.

"But we can't stay here," squeaked Mrs. Whitefoot.

"Yes, we can," replied Whitefoot. "This is the safest place we can be."

"Are you crazy?" Mrs. Whitefoot wanted to know. "The idea of saying this is a safe place! Those Hawks are right over our heads."

"That is what makes it the safest place we can be," declared Whitefoot.

BACKACHE?

When every sudden move brings short, sharp twinges—it's time for Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. Thousands find quick relief from backache, painful joints, kidney and liver disorders by taking this proven remedy. By combining 2 treatments in 1—Dr. Chase's work on both kidneys and liver for faster relief.

"We'll find a place," squeaked Mrs. Whitefoot.

Whitefoot. "Probably everybody knows those Hawks are living over our heads and no one thinks it would be of any use to look for us here. It is just as I told you, this is the safest place we can be in because it is so close to danger. Everybody knows we are afraid of Hawks, so nobody thinks we'll be living neighbors. And I guess those Hawks don't think so either."

Nothing happened that first night. Nothing happened the second night. Nothing happened the third night. Hooty the Owl didn't come around. Reddy Fox didn't come around. Bobby Coon didn't come around. Unc' Billy Possum didn't come around. All winter long one or another of these folks had been around almost every night.

"I told you so," said Whitefoot to his pretty little mate.

"What did you tell me?" demanded little Mrs. Whitefoot.

"I told you that this is the safest place we can be," retorted

Whitefoot.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

WEEK-END ROUND-UP... Maestro Meredith Wilson, now back at his Mandeville Canyon summer home, says it is practically definite NBC's "Big Show" will open the fall season with two or three broadcasts originating in England and France.

"The Bickersons," a radio original that went to the Dumont TV network, may be back in the radio fold before long. "Dark Venture," the popular radio show of two years back, is being revived as summer air fare.

The "Hedda Hopper Show," with only a few more weeks to run on NBC, will definitely not be back next season. Maestro Frank Worth has been signed to prepare the music for a new science-fiction radio series entitled "Flight Into Space," and is working on special effects with a 22-piece orchestra. He says the script presents the greatest musical challenge he's ever had. Screen star John Lund has been signed for the lead in the "Amazing Mr. Malone" radio series beginning in June. Marylee Robb, who is "Marjorie" on the "Great Gildersleeve Show," may do summer stock for the La Jolla (California) Little Theatre group while the "Giddy" program vacations. Two new air shows have just been auditioned at NBC. One has Howard Duff starring in a new detective series entitled "The McCoy," and the other has Jack Paar emceeing a quizzer, "Don't Answer That."

Charles and Freeman Gosselin, who are "Amos 'n' Andy," have been signed to another year's contract by their present sponsor. Fran Warren's waxing of Meredith Wilson's newest tune, "Here Comes the Springtime," is expected to boost the tune high up on the "Hit Parade" in the next few weeks.

STAR GAZING... Screen moppet Margaret O'Brien must be preparing for a TV career. She's made a number of personal appearances on video shows in New York during the past month, and rumors have it that one of the networks wants her to "fence" a TV show slanted at the kiddies.

Norma Shearer, the famous Montreal-born screen star, will be coming out of her nine-year retirement soon to do a broadcast on "Screen Directors' Playhouse." However, the date has not yet been set for her appearance. Florence Bates, who has been one of the screen's best-known character actresses for many years, is now extending her activities into the field of radio. She is slated to appear in prominent supporting roles on top dramatic airshows. Her most recent air-stint was a couple of weeks back on "Suspense" in "The Thirteenth Sound," which starred Anne Baxter and featured Miss Bates in the role of "Mrs. Barker." Florence Bates originally started her dramatic career in radio in 1928 when she wrote, produced and performed a travelogue program of her own creation. But it wasn't until she was over 50 years of age that she took up a theatrical career in earnest.

Soon it will be "Doctor" Eddie Cantor. The banjo-eyed comedian of radio, screen and TV, is to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from Temple University, Philadelphia, during commencement exercises June 14. Former President Herbert Hoover and Warren Austin, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations will receive the degree at the same time.

Marvin Miller, the announcer on the "Railroad Hour," has another oriental movie role in the works. The tall, husky actor, of Germanic ancestry, says he really enjoys the transformation. Says it's a complete change from his radio chores. His new role will be as a maharaja in Paramount's "Rage of the Vulture."

Gene Autry beat out a long distance phone call to Chicago to score first with his recording of "Old Soldiers Never Die," following Gene McArthur's speech and, during the first three days of its release, sold over 150,000 copies, and is still going.

Crippled Youth Takes Part In Cubs' Field Day

Among the 150 Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs who took part in the Oak Bay Cubs' and Scouts' field day at Windsor Park Saturday was Wolf Cub John McFadden, who, although crippled by a muscular illness, was able to hold his own in the Cub events.

The field day featured demonstrations of lashing, knotting, message relaying, and an exhibition of jungle dancing and games.

The Owls Patrol led by M. MacLeod, the Hawks Patrol, under Charles Worsley, and the Heron Patrol, headed by David Long, were among the winners in the Scout division. In the Cub competitions, "C" Pack received the most points.

TAIPEH (AP)—The Free China Anti-Atrocity League says the Communists, "by their own admission," executed more than 1,300,000 persons on the mainland in the last 18 months.

In a statement issued through the Nationalist Defence Ministry, the League said the figure was based on announcements carried by the Red press and radio.

The League said its own estimate was 2,250,000.

One June 1 of this year 18,000 enumerators will begin collection of the data for Canada's ninth census.

DOCTOR SAYS

By Dr. Edwin P. Jordan

Hereditary bleeding or hemophilia is an uncommon condition but a serious and puzzling one. It is present only in the male line and is carried only by the female.

It is commonly known also as the royal disease because it is believed Queen Victoria of England was the first to carry the hereditary gene. Ten of her male descendants had hemophilia and at least seven of the female ones proved to be carriers. But a similar condition has been observed in puppies so royal ancestry does not appear to be the whole story.

Every victim of true hemophilia is of the male sex. The tendency to easy bleeding crops up early in life and someone who has it must be extremely careful about even the most trifling injury as this can set off a serious hemorrhage. A scratch, the pulling of a tooth, a slight blow on the nose may start bleeding which will prove impossible to stop.

Internal bleeding can occur, too. One of the common difficulties of bleeders is hemorrhage into the joints which causes inflammation and what is sometimes spoken of as hemophilic arthritis. But there is a tendency for hemophilia to get better as age advances. Therefore if the small boy can get through his early years he has a fair chance in the future.

DOCTOR SAYS

By Dr. Edwin P. Jordan

There are some other conditions in which bleeding occurs rather easily and is difficult to stop. So one must not jump to the conclusion that every difficulty of the sort is true hereditary hemophilia. But when this diagnosis is made there is not as yet any thoroughly satisfactory treatment. Blood transfusions are frequently given and these may help.

EXERCISE CARE

Other methods are sometimes applied and it seems not unlikely that research workers who are actively studying the origins of hemophilia will eventually come up with an effective treatment. In the meantime sufferers from hemophilia, whether they can trace royal descent or not, have to exercise the greatest care to avoid any injury which might start uncontrollable bleeding.

WOULD OUTLAW SNOW WHITE

BERLIN (AP)—Snow White, Cinderella and Hansel and Gretel are "antiprogessive" and ought to be outlawed—or rewritten, says the Communist newspaper Maerksche Zeitung in the Soviet zone. Objection to Hansel and Gretel: An old woman is maligned as a witch, probably just because she is poor. Objection to Snow White and Cinderella: Put stepmothers in a bad light.

Bronx Gorilla Drowns

NEW YORK (AP)—Makoko, 14-year-old gorilla, was drowned in a moat at the Bronx Zoo Saturday, before a crowd of 1,000 persons. Keeper George Scott plunged in to rescue the great ape but Makoko's 440 pounds were too heavy for him. Great apes cannot swim.

PAPERS SAY ATOM SPIES MAY START WORK AGAIN

LONDON (CP)—Two Sunday newspapers are speculating two of Britain's atom spies may be released from jail to continue atomic research under guard. Authoritative quarters said such an arrangement was unlikely.

The Sunday Chronicle reported both Dr. Klaus Fuchs and Dr. Allan Nunn may be released. Fuchs has served 14 months of a 14-year sentence for giving atomic secrets to Russia. May was sentenced to 10 years for violating Britain's official secrets act.

Reynolds News carried a similar report about Fuchs. The Sunday Dispatch, quoted the warden of Stafford Prison as denying reports that Home Office officials have interviewed Fuchs with a view to releasing him.

Holy Year To End At Portuguese Shrine On Oct. 13

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The extended 1950 Holy Year will end formally Oct. 13 at the Shrine of Our Lady of Fatima near Lisbon, Portugal, in a ceremony which in effect will be a consecration by the Vatican of that famous shrine, Vatican sources said today.

The closing will be a symbolic one, the last great ceremony of the Holy Year which began Christmas Eve, 1949, and was extended through 1951.

The Fatima ceremony, the Vatican informants said, will be an "exaltation" of the shrine, where the Virgin Mary is said to have appeared to Portuguese children Oct. 13, 1917, and asked that a chapel be built at Fatima in her name.

The informants say examination of the reports of miracles at Fatima was one of the factors in the Pope's decision to pronounce as dogma—part of the body of Roman Catholic belief—that the Virgin Mary was assumed bodily into heaven.

The Pope celebrated mass Sunday in St. Peter's Basilica for about 30,000 Roman Catholic workers of 10 countries and called on them to cling to the three principles of Catholic social doctrine—truth, justice and Christian love.

The special mass commemorated the 60th anniversary of the papal encyclical "rerum novarum" which dealt with working-class conditions.

Victoria Youth Returned To Jail

VANCOUVER (CP)—Edward Robinson, 17-year-old Victoria youth, was recaptured Sunday night, seven hours after fleeing from the closed Boral unit at Oakalla prison farm.

SHIRT, CHEESE, SOAP, GLASSES TOTAL BAGGAGE

HALIFAX (CP)—For S. Karkkainen, a Finnish immigrant who arrived here today, life is uncomplicated. An astonished customs officer looked at Karkkainen's luggage and asked: "Is that all you have?"

The little leather bag contained a shirt, a piece of cheese, a pair of glasses and a cake of soap.

Karkkainen, en route to Port Alberni, was one of 400 immigrants who arrived aboard the liner Washington.

No Harm To Public By Co.'s, Is Claim

MONTREAL (CP)—Defence counsel today asked Mr. Justice Valmore Bienvenue to quash the indictment against five companies charged with operating or forming a monopoly in the Canadian match industry.

Counsel Lucien Gendron suggested that a combination within the meaning of the Combines Investigation Act has to have the intent to act to the detriment of the public interest.

In this particular case, he said, his clients were not accused of doing any such thing. They were charged only with controlling the match industry in Canada, except Newfoundland.

Paratroopers Put On Alert

LONDON (AP)—Britain has put its 16th Independent Parachute Brigade on the alert to ready itself for action, but has given no explanation for the order.
